

2017 THE MYER AND JACK BUDOVITCH TROPHY FREDERICTON'S ATHLETE OF THE YEAR CALVIN ROSS

Anytime you accomplish something that has never been done before, it's noteworthy. This year's selection for the Myer and Jack Budovitch Award as Fredericton's Athlete of the Year, did just that. Eighteen year old Calvin Ross became the first New Brunswicker ever to win the Canadian Junior Mens Golf Championship.

In fact, the Leo Hayes Graduate scorched the course in Kingston, Ontario. Calvin finished the four rounds at a nine-under par 271 which was good for a seven shot win over his nearest competitor. The highlight of Ross's week was shooting an 8-under par 62, a new course record for the Catarauqui Golf and Country Club.

That win earned Ross a berth in the 2017 Canadian Amateur in Toronto. Ross, who was named National Junior Golfer of the Year, is in his second year of a golf scholarship to Texas State University in San Marcos.
